Softball Girls Entertained to Banquet & Dance

Banquet in Club Cafe and Dance
in Cliff Hall

It was a jolly crowd which assembled at the Club Cafe last Friday evening when a banquet was tendered to the softball girls and their friends in recognition of the splendid season's sport and entertainment with which they had furnished the citizens this season.

A dainty dinner was served in On Sing's usual clean, artistic and appetizing manner, and all thoroughly enjoyed the social hour spent together.

After all had shown mine host how they appreciated his tasty viands, Mayor Warts, who is the president of the girls' club, called the gathering to order.

After the toast to the King and the singing of "O Canada," his worship explained the object of the gathering and expressed pride in being associated with such a fine bunch of girls who had made such a good showing on the softball field this season.

W. Campeau proposed the toast to the Girls' Club in which he congratulated the players for the splendid showing they had made this season and for the interest and harmony which existed among them. In response, Miss Elsie Fry thanked the executive and citizens' generosity for their support and encouragement during the season, and for the banquet arranged in their behalf. She regretted they had not landed the league trophy this year but said she felt sure it would be moved to Redcliff next season.

Mr. Weeks fittingly proposed the toast to the ladies to which Mrs. Stone responded. Mrs. Stone complimented the girls, not only on their ability to play softball, but also for their deportment on the field. The speaker was glad to note the change in sentiment and styles of the past decade, which encouraged girls to take a more prominent part in sports and to enter into them with costumes more fitting for the freedom of movement and action.

E. L. Stone proposed a toast to the coach, Jim Podesta, to whom, he said, much was due for the success of the team this season. Jim modestly acknowledged the words of approval and said he enjoyed working with the girls who always tried to do their best.

After the banquet a dance was held in Cliff Hall but the small crowd present was very disappointing. It was especially disappointing as the five-piece orchestra which furnished the music was one of the best we have had here for some time.

One remark heard at the dance is well worth passing on. It was this "Well for twenty years we have been patronizing events of this kind for football clubs in town and it is rather strange that there is not a football player or executive member here tonight to reciprocate."

Those who were present however had a most enjoyable evening and greatly appreciated the excellent music, and the efforts

Officers Elected for High School
Literary Society

School opened for the fall term on Tuesday with a total enrolment of 241 pupils of which 37 were registered for high school work. As all the scholars are not yet back at work these numbers will be considerably augmented before the end of the month.

At the organization meeting of the high school Literary Society the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Jim Brown, Vice-President—Jim Lovens, Secretary—Jean Paterson, Editor of Paper—Beth Pallie.

The province of Saskatchewan has made a gift of 1500 horses to the Imperial government.

Albert Collard, engineer at the shoe factory, was badly burned in the face while at work last Wednesday.

The new Royal Bank building, 24 by 50 feet, is to be erected at once on the corner of Broadway and Third street.

A large gathering of citizens assembled in the Empress theatre on Wednesday to engage in a service of prayer for the nation.

Rev. H. C. B. Gibson, in his address at the prayer service, stated that he felt the cause of the war was the lack of prayer, penitence and supplication. He said people everywhere were running to excess in art, dress, theatres, divorce, drink and dissipation of the Sabbath and that nothing short of a great conflict could bring people back to their senses and their God.

10 HOLD CONFERENCE ON WHEAT REDUCTION

Conference between Dominion and western government representatives may be held this fall on the wheat agreement signed in London. Although no official action will be taken at present it is considered likely that discussion will be held in Ottawa towards uniform co-operation in the direction of carrying out the agreement from the Canadian angle. One of the subjects for discussion probably will be the limitation of production by 25 per cent. of the 1934-35 wheat crop, called for in the agreement.

Benefit Dance Was A Great Success

The benefit dance held in Cliff Hall last Monday evening under the auspices of the local Stampede Association, attracted a splendid crowd and all thoroughly enjoyed the evening. The orchestra from Medicine Hat, which furnished the music gratis, put on a splendid program and kept the crowd in good spirits throughout. Appearing refreshments, served under the management of St. Mary's Altar Society were served at midnight. The committee in charge wish us to extend their thanks to the orchestra, the Altar Society and all those who helped make the event such a success.

Football Boys Have One More Game to Play

Game Last Monday Was A Tie
With Score One All

Two games in the junior football league were played during the past week between the Redcliff and the Medicine Hat Gallies. Redcliff lost the first game by a 1-0 score, and in the second game played Labor Day the score was a tie, one all.

This means that another game will be necessary to decide the championship of this district.

Until near the end of Monday's game it looked as though Redcliff was going to win out, as the score was 1-0 in their favor until just a few minutes of the final whistle. Champ scored early in the first half and from then on play was very even.

Both teams played a tidy game with quick long passing which was considered by the fans as an improvement over the old senior's style.

The teams lined up as follows: Callies: Baskin, Pearson, Melbourne, McQueen, Freeman, A. Freeman, J. Freeman, J. Pearson, V. Appleton, McArthur, G. Appleton, S. Melbourne.

Redcliff: Paterson, Fairhurst, Lovens, Jno. Dutton, Jim Dutton, Kitchen, Champ, Colard, Podesta, Lawson, Maskell.

MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE MAKES BAD MISTAKE

Writing in the last issue of Maclean's magazine, Ian Schindler states that Premier Tilley of New Brunswick is the only son of any of the Fathers of Confederation to become premier of a province. This is a mistake. Surely Sir John A. MacDonald was one of the chief of the Fathers of Confederation, and just as surely was his son, Hugh John MacDonald, the Premier of Manitoba in 1900.

Labor Day passed off quietly here last Monday. No sports of any kind, either here or in Medicine Hat had been arranged for the occasion.

JUST FOR FUN

There's a shortstop whose first name is Mike,
I'd say she's a cute little thing
She backs up the bases,

At least business is looking up for those who are looking it is a case of too much money in buildings and not enough in circulation; and too many people in circulation and not enough in buildings.

A Woman at Banff

I know God fashioned little fields
So they would be
A comfort for old homely folk
Like you and me.
Small gardens with their fences
Roses and light,
And tiny gates to shut us
From the night,
But still He made with
Glory in His veins,

This solitude, where Might
Forever reigns,
Moulded the hills with glad
Scattered hands
Shaping the valleys for
Wide pasture lands.
And so this towering peak
Forever bears,
Old finger-marks upon
Its rugged stairs,

And every shining height
Believes the glow
Of some white vision field
Of drifted snow,
And over it he laid
With loving care,
The mantle of his peace
Forever there.

England Has Five Flags

Any One Of Which Denotes British Nationality

Exponents of a national flag for Canada may find some comfort in the suggestion that the United Kingdom itself has none.

An inquiry in the London Times asking what flag an Englishman might "legally and appropriately" fly from the staff on his house, brought this terse rejoinder from Lord Glasgow, former captain in the Royal Navy:

"None, for we have neither national flag nor colors."

In the many attempts to refute this statement it was brought out in the columns of the Times that there are at least five flags which denote British nationality, but each one, particularly the Union Jack, is so hampered in with restrictions that, according to one writer, "the ordinary man is apparently not entitled to fly a flag at all on his own house."

"I entirely agree with Lord Glasgow," this correspondent added, "that the Union Jack is not a proper flag for any British subject to fly on shore. It is an official badge. It cannot be flown at sea except by the Royal Navy, and it can only be flown by lord-lieutenants, or on houses of Parliament, or on castles, or remains of castles formerly used for defensive purposes."

"The White Ensign can, at sea, of course, only be flown by the Royal Navy and the Royal Naval Reserve. On shore, I believe, naval officers claim it on their own houses, but any civilian, and even a naval officer, may use the other day that anyone could fly it on shore."

"The Red Ensign, a sea flag, denotes British nationality, and, being a sea flag, it should surely not be flown ashore."

"The Blue Ensign (official transport) has also its definite uses ashore and also forms the base (as does the Red Ensign) of various yacht club flags. But it is not a sea flag."

"The Royal Standard is, of course, the purely personal flag of the sovereign."

"Finally, we come to the St. George's Cross (red cross on white ground). I maintain that it is not, or should not be, confined to the use of the Admiralty alone—except with a number of red discs upon it. But its George, being a purely English saint, and what I believe he was originally a Cappadocian, should, or would, a Scotsman or a Welshman fly it."

"A man is undoubtedly entitled to fly his own banner over his own house; but very few people have their own banners, and what is a man to fly if he is not entitled to a coat of arms?"

Seeking Lost Islands

Location Unknown For Years But Search Is Continued

Search that has been going on for almost 30 years for five islands in the Bay of Panama will be resumed with new vigor by Mr. Mario Piles, owner of the islands, and the wife of her husband, has been announced.

Her husband, Washington V. Piles, a piano teacher and an actor, was character in San Francisco before the fire of 1906, inherited the islands from an ancestor who had obtained them by grant from a Spanish king, according to Archie Treat, Mrs. Piles's attorney.

For years Piles (endeavored to colonize the islands. Later he tried to sell them. The map giving the location of the islands was destroyed in the 1906 fire. Piles died a year before the fire.

Since then Mrs. Piles has been trying to locate her estate. The state department interested itself in the search for years, but without success. The only hope, it was pointed out late in ancient records of Spain.

Prize For Century-Old Doll

Jerusalem, a doll more than 200 years old, wearing an old-fashioned calico dress, competed against 150 other dolls, including some of the latest models and he carried off first prize in the doll show at the Waltham Public Library. Jerusalem was exhibited by Mrs. Alice Record. The exhibits ranged from a quarter-inch to three feet in length, and the exhibits ranged from 5 to 10 in age.

Flying At Seventy

WHEN THE BRITISH TEAM ARRIVED HOME WITH THE DAVIS CUP

London's usually calm exterior was badly ruffled when the British Davis Cup team arrived in Victoria Station with the coveted Davis Cup, emblematic of supremacy in the lawn tennis world. For twenty-one years the trophy had eluded the Great Britain players till this year when Austin, Perry, Hughes, Lee and Company confounded the so-called experts and defeated Australia, United States and France in the semi-final and final stages of the series. Here we see the excited team enjoying the tumultuous welcome which was handed out when they reached home. Left to right: H. W. "Bunny" Austin, H. Roger Barrett, the non-playing captain, with the trophy, Fred J. Perry, G. P. Hughes and H. G. N. Lee.

Collecting Bird Specimens

Two Hundred and Fifty Birds Collected in Hudson Bay Area For Royal Ontario Museum

Bird specimens numbering 250, collected along the Hudson Bay coast between Churchill and Eskimo Point are ready for shipment to the Royal Ontario Museum. The collector, Arthur C. Twomey, of Edmonton, student of the University of Alberta, who undertakes this work as a private enterprise, has had many specimens accepted by the museum during the past five years. A selection will be made from the shipment when it arrives.

L. L. Snyder, ornithologist at the museum, says the collection of birds from the sub-Arctic is still small. The birds used for studies are kept in steel cupboards and placed in long trays, several members of a species together for comparison and examination for variation. The birds appear in natural form, but are, in fact, merely the skins with feet, beak and feathers intact. The skins are turned and stuffed with cotton to provide a body.

The birds from Hudson Bay will not be on exhibition, but share the extensive south-proved cupboards that already contain close to 20,000 birds.

Mr. Twomey will spend the remainder of the summer, it is learned, in collecting other specimens found in northern Alberta. He is one of several ornithologists and naturalists who make collections for the museum.

A Double Score

Smoker Had Free Paid And Was Not Disturbed

A gentleman on Oyster Bay way always avoids the smoking car when his commutes—can't stand smoking himself, and doesn't like other people to smoke. He found a seat in a non-smoking coach the other morning, but to his dismay a man came in and sat facing him and lighted up a cigar. Not wanting to make a scene, the other map waited till the conductor came around to punch his ticket. He handed it to the conductor, he nudged him and nodded to the brazen smoker. The conductor nodded back, took another punch out of the ticket, and went on. The New Yorker.

Germany's New Electric Train

Claimed To Be Fastest Of Its Type In World

The German National Railways recently put through its trial run from Munich to Stuttgart an electric train which is claimed to be the fastest of its type in the world.

Over the 240-kilometer stretch, which is covered in two hours, 35 minutes, the train averaged over 80 kilometers, or almost 60 miles per hour.

The greatest speed, 151.6 kilometers an hour, is the highest ever reached by an electric train, it is reported.

"The 'Flying Hamburger,' a streamlined, Diesel-powered double unit operating between Berlin and Hamburg, makes much faster time, but it is not to be classed with heavy trains such as the new Munich-Stuttgart express, which includes a locomotive and seven cars."

Railway Saving Time

Speeds Up Express Trains To Sixty Miles An Hour

The fastest railway service ever operated in the United Kingdom is that of the London and North-Eastern since July 17 this year.

There are 25 express with start-to-stop speeds of 60 miles an hour and over. All the companies speeded up various services on the date mentioned, and altogether 185 hours a day are being saved on journey times. The world's longest non-stop run has been captured for Britain by the London and North-Eastern Flying Scotsman, which covers the 294 miles between King's Cross and Edinburgh in 7 1/4 hours.

Earth's Jacket Shrinking

Result Of Gradual Cooling Of Interior Say Scientists

New evidence that mother earth's 106 million-square mile rock jacket is shrinking on her like a cheap suit in a heavy rain was presented to the International Geological Congress at Washington.

Among remote peaks of the Himalaya Mountains of North India, tallest mountains in the world and among the youngest, Dr. Hellmut de Terra of Yale University has found evidence that she believes are unmistakable signs of contracting straits.

The shrinkage presumably is a result of the gradual cooling of the earth's interior. That has been progressing slowly since this planet originally was pulled off from the sun in the form of a hot gas ball. What is actually shrinking is the earth's inner shell of semi-solid "magnolite" rock, which underlies both oceans and continents.

When the deep rock layer shrinks, it is believed, that outer crust of hard, rigid rocks is crumpled and wrinkled like the skin of an apple when its inside dries up.

This is what "wrinkled up" the mighty Himalayas, the Alps of Europe and other mountain ranges of the world, Dr. de Terra holds. He finds evidence of it from a study of the Himalayas, made on a two-and-a-half-year expedition in that region.

The wrinkling up of the Himalayas and Alps began in an extinct ocean, the "Tethys Sea" that once separated two great land masses of the world, one to the south, the other to the north. When the magnetic rock shell shrank, these two huge continents were moved nearer each other, as two balloons on a cord when the cord is pulled.

Pinned between them, the bottom of the Tethys Sea was crumpled into folds. This was raised above sea level and the rise continued. Folding and lifting operations have been going on in the Himalayas as recently as perhaps 1,000,000 years ago, only yesterday in geological time. They started more than 100,000,000 years ago, Dr. Terra estimates.

Travel At Great Speed

Forecast Motors Do About Forty Miles a Second

If you wish to see what a speed of 144,000 miles an hour really looks like, you should see the periscope motors which appear about August 11 every year.

The periscope travel about 40 miles a second. They are among the fastest motors belonging to the solar system. If they saw any star they would come from the sun's gravitational grip and go wandering off into space, and so would be lost as an unspectacular to earthlings.

The periscope travel in 135 years to circle the sun.

Too Many Specialists

Dr. Mayo Advises Residents To Go Into General Practice

Declaring physicians should not forget the importance of "taking care of the sick," Dr. William J. Mayo, one of the founders of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., said he would advise the country's medical students to become general practitioners, instead of specialists. "It is true," he said, "that there are too many young specialists, at least in my opinion. They came out of school and suddenly they are specialists."

Why She's So

The question of why a locomotive is called "she" has been referred to a railroad official. He replies:

"There are many reasons for this. For instance, she wears a jacket with a yoke, pins and waistline. She has an engine and a big top. Not only does she have shoes, but she sports pumps and even hose while she drags trains behind her. She also attracts attention with her puff and muffers, and sometimes she frowns and refuses to work. At such times she needs to be soothed. She needs guiding and she requires a man to feed her, but most characteristic of all is that she is much sturdier when she is hooked up than when she is uncoupled."

Although the declaration is a nuisance on the laws, feed experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have observed that sheep prefer sandstone to good Kentucky blue grass.

An automatic fire alarm has been invented that sounds a siren or bell when heat becomes intense enough to melt a lead wire.

Market For Soy Beans

U.S. Farmers Find They Are Good

Wary Crop

Soy beans, heretofore regarded by most farmers as good cattle and hog feed and as an excellent crop to grow in order to give his land a rest, have entered the commercial field and give promise of being a new and profitable crop for the Midwest farmer.

Soy beans are just coming into their own and already a half dozen millers are developing various flourings with the lowly beans as their base.

The past three years has seen soy bean four introduced into this country, but so little has been circulated that many farmers who have raised the beans in order to rest their land have merely "plowed under" not realizing that soy beans can be sold on the open market the same as wheat, oats and corn.

Chemists and dietitians have recently discovered what the Chinese and Japanese have known for centuries that the soy bean contains food elements similar to those found in meat, milk, butter, eggs and sugar. Also, the harmonious balance. They have also discovered that the bean contains no starch.

It is estimated that a property possessed pound of soy flour has, for example, the same protein as 1 1/2 pounds of meat or 300 eggs or 14 plants milk.

It was pointed out, however, that four made from soy beans must be increased steadily. In general the beans can be raised in any climate or soil which will raise corn. In the United States, however, the production of a farmer was the only one which the farmer could readily turn into cash.

Many farmers sold their last year's crop from 40 to 50 cents a bushel in the 1922-23 season, ended July 1. The beans are now selling for from a dollar to a dollar twenty a bushel.

Last Year Crop Returns

Western Farmers Received Over $120,000,000 For 1922-23 Season

West growers of western Canada in the crop year just ended got a better return for their product than in the season 1921-22. Return to farmers in the 1922-23 season, ended July 1, was $122,027,721.

This sum, representing the amount paid the farmer at country elevators, was considerably ahead of that for the year previous, $113,085,981.

Those farmers in Manitoba received for their wheat the best price in the season—112 cents a bushel. The Saskatchewan returned 147,596,000 bushels was $49,112,112. Alberta, however, shipped 14,825,000 bushels and received $53,610,997 in return.

Total marketed in the worst last season was $72,001,000 bushels.

Canada's Arctic Islands

About half of Canada's Eskimo population is in the Eastern Arctic and over 1,500 of these natives are in Baffin Island, said that the Baffin Island posts, therefore, are trading stations, but the islands further north have scarcely any permanent native population and the posts there are purely for Government administrative purposes and are managed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. From these posts extensive patrols are conducted. The Government posts in the Eastern Arctic are visited annually by steamship by an expedition sent out by the Department of the Interior.

Swift Current Weather Station

A new instrument to record the relative humidity and direction of the wind was installed at the Swift Current weather station by D. G. Archibald, of the Dominion service. The instrument, which replaces an old one, is called an "anemometer," and is said to be the latest development in wind measuring. It was exhibited at the World's Grain Show, Regina.

A Message to The Alberta Grain Growers

The Alberta Wheat Pool closed its books on July 16th for the 1932-33 business year. The organization is pleased to state that the volume of business transacted during the year was the largest Pool elevators have ever enjoyed.

The natural conclusion is that the thousands of grain growers who have given their patronage to this grower-controlled co-operative are appreciative of the services rendered and are determined to build up within the boundaries of this Province a strong and aggressive organization on a co-operative basis.

The organization invites and would appreciate during the new crop year a continuation of the patronage so generously extended in the past. Those who have never before utilized Pool elevator facilities are invited to do so with the assurance that careful, courteous and efficient attention will be given to all business entrusted to it.

The welfare of agriculture in Alberta would suggest that all grain growers should be concerned in the up-building of a truly co-operative elevator organization owned and governed by the grain growers of the province and interested primarily in the welfare of Alberta agriculture.
